Space as Support: Part 1111, Maria Nordman

From dawn to dusk on the summer solstice (June 21), for that one day only, the University Art Museum, Berkeley will be the site of an extraordinary work of art, the fourth and final installation in the series Space as Support. From 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. the Museum will be open for viewing a work by the internationally known artist Maria Nordman. This work will involve the entire Museum building.

Utilizing the particular qualities of the Museum site (its light, sound and appearance) as these change in time on this special day (the solstice), Nordman will create an ambience that must be experienced to be understood. For a decade the artist has made installations for specific locations as diverse as museums, studios, alleys and storefronts. In each locale she works with the unique physical qualities and time of day to produce an environment in which the observer's experience is the subject of the artwork. And the experience has often been profound. Transcendent and prelogical are two of the adjectives that have been used to describe the environments created by Nordman. Generally the observer comes upon the space unprepared by description, and has a personal discovery not dissimilar to suddenly experiencing a highly unusual phenomenon.

Born in East Germany, Nordman has lived much of her life in Los Angeles. Her work has been exhibited at Documenta 6, Kassel, West Germany; Venice Biennale; Kunstraum, Munich; Newport Harbor Art Museum; and the Pasadena Art Museum.

The Berkeley installation will take place in the largest space in which Nordman will have worked. Like a long-remembered live solo, Nordman's work is fugitive in nature. You must be there to experience it. The Museum will be open on June 21 from dawn to dusk, 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. Admission is free.

"Andre, Buren, Irwin, Nordman: Space as Support" is generously supported in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, a Federal agency.

THE FORT WORTH ART MUSEUM ANNOUNCES STATE-WIDE EXHIBITION OF WORKS
BY NOTED ARTIST MARIA NORDMAN

The Fort Worth Art Museum, the Laguna Gloria Art Museum in Austin and the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts are collaborating for the first time on a jointly sponsored exhibition, MARIA NORDMAN/TEXAS, comprised of three separate works shown simultaneously in the three cities.

Nordman, born in Germany and now living in California, alters the physical qualities (primarily light, space and sound) of a specific site to create new possibilities of perceiving and experiencing that space.

The Fort Worth Art Museum installation will be on view February 2 through March 9 and will relate to elements within and outside the Museum. The Austin work, on view February 8 through 29, will be seen initially on the grounds of the Laguna Gloria Art Museum and thereafter will be transported to other selected sites in the city. The Dallas Museum of Fine Arts work will be on view February 19 through March 30 within the Museum in a space separating the African and European collections.

Beginning in 1967 with indoor works using argon laser light, Nordman's works have evolved into explorations of natural light in both indoor and outdoor locations, a concern she has pursued for almost a decade. She has exhibited widely in Europe but this exhibition is her first in the U.S. outside California. Among the previous exhibition sites are included: 12839 Washington (at Beethoven), Los Angeles, May 1 - July 20, 1979; the entire exhibition space at the University Art Gallery, University of California at Berkeley, June 21, 1979; a room in the living and working area of a Kassel (Germany) neighborhood for Documenta 6, the international art fair, June - October, 1977; a room in the public gardens of Venice during the Venice Biennale, June - October, 1976; and, in the Villa Medicea in Artimino (Museo d'Artista), July, 1976 to the present.

Nordman received her B.F.A. and M.A. from the University of California at Los Angeles. She has received a Guggenheim Fellowship and two Artists Fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts.

MARIA NORDMAN/TEXAS was organized for The Fort Worth Art Museum by Curator Marge Goldwater with the assistance of Sue Graze, Acting Curator for Contemporary Art, the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and Annette Carlozzi, Curator, the Laguna Gloria Art Museum. It is supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

*“Die Proto-Präsenz der Skulptur ist Stille.
Ein Wort könnte geformt oder gefunden werden zwischen den Menschen, die sich an ihrem Beginn treffen.
Wo auch immer Skulptur neu anfängt -- wäre es im Werden mit dem Horizont der Erde – mit den Ankommenden – auch mit den per Zufall sich einstellenden Konditionen der Erde & der Sonne --*

*Die Skulptur ist nicht da.
Sie ist weder Objekt noch Subjekt Eine Arbeit könnte von Zeit zu Zeit da sein.“*

Diesen ersten Werksätzen Maria Nordmans aus frühen Werkphasen entsprechend finden ihre Werke häufig über einen bestimmten Zeitraum statt -- auf Gehwegen, in Stadtparks verschiedener Kulturen oder in Werken, wie sie die Konrad Fischer Galerie präsentiert. Die STANDING PICTURES zeigen sich auch im Zusammenklang mit Museen. Maria Nordman sieht Museen als potenzielle Mit-Spieler an -- indem sie zu gewissen Zeiten zum Teil einer sich aufbauenden weiteren Verbindung werden -- den „Nachbarschaftsrhizomen einer Stadt“.

Könnten diese Werke die Foyer-Situationen auf andere offene Orte hin ausrichten -- auf neue Zeiten der Diskussion hin? Oder würde der Aspekt des Bauens ein neues Nachbarschafts-Projekt anstoßen, das fortführte, was die Konrad Fischer Galerie zusammen mit Maria Nordman als offener Vorschlag für die Stadt potentiell in Gang bringt?

"The proto-presence of sculpture is silence. A word could be formed or found between the people who might meet at its start. For the initiatory presence of sculpture -- a person could meet with any personages appearing by chance on the horizon of the earth -- in concert with the changes of the atmospheric relations of the earth with the sun.

There is no such thing as sculpture.

It is not an object nor is it a subject.

A work could be there from time to time. "

With these initiatory statements of Maria Nordman from early work periods, we find that her works often take place over time on the sidewalk of the streets or in parks of cities of various cultures -- or in rooms, as presented by the Konrad Fischer Gallery. These rooms which continue since 1977 in potential inter-relations with one work on the street: Neubrückestrasse Düsseldorf. The Standing Pictures brought to Berlin act in concert also with museums. And she sees museums as potential co-enactors -- becoming in time part of the building of the greater connection called "neighborhood - rhizomes of a city."

It's exactly there, where the chance movements and chance encounters of people living & working occur in a city, that this work could begin -- with an aspect of neighborhood building.

With tangent works from the earliest period of building -- as in Filmrooms 1967- Present, shown in STANDING PICTURES -- one can find here, the connection of time & place creation being already the work of sculpture.

The creation of time and place -- occurs in the FILMROOMS of 1967. This work and its relative projects, are still arriving by work of mouth

The Standing Pictures could become guests of foyers of different libraries or museums-- that could engender a new construct of
